Pattern

Cuff

Using Yarn A, ch 16.

Starting in the 2nd ch from the hook, dc to end of row. Turn.

Ch 1 and dcbl to end of row. Turn.

Repeat  until your crochet is long enough to just meet around your wrist with a little stretch. (Mine was 38 rows.) If required, crochet less or more rows in multiples of two according to fit; 36, 40, 42 etc.

Fold your crochet in half, bringing the beginning up behind where your hook currently is, ch1 and ss the two rows (first and last) together.

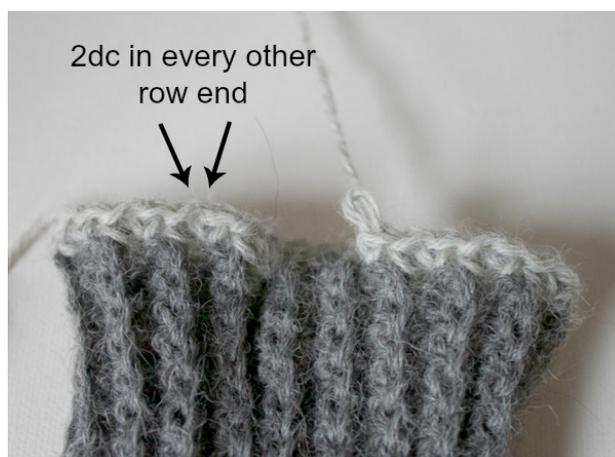

Secure and fasten off.

Turn your crochet inside out so that your ss seam sits on the inside of your cuff.

You are now going to be creating the main body of the mitt and working along the row endings of your cuff, in the round.

Mitt

Join Yarn B by a ss, near the cuff seam (this will now be the underside or palm side of your cuff), ch1, 2dc in every other row end (between each ridge).

Do not join when you complete the round, simply continue to dc in each stitch, round after round.

Keep trying on your mitts and when you're ready to add the thumbhole (I did after 12 rounds), place a stitch marker where it should begin and a second marker 12 stitches further along.

IMPORTANT – Remember that you are making a left and right mitt. The place you joined Yarn B and began your rounds will be facing up on the left hand mitt and face down on the right hand mitt.

2dc in first marked stitch and 2dc in second marked stitch, skipping those in between. Continue to dc around your new slightly smaller round for a further six more rounds.

Frill

On the palm side of your mitt, perform half a dc with Yarn A (insert hook, yarn over, pull through [two loops on hook]) yarn over with Yarn B and pull through.

In the next stitch, ss and 3tr.
3tr in each of following stitches to the end of the round. Join with a ss to ch3. Fasten off.

Thumbhole

Attach Yarn A to first of missed stitches with a ss. Ch1 and dc in same stitch.

Continue to dc in each stitch in the round, for three rounds.
Secure and fasten off.
